The Modified Food Retail Environment Index was created by the CDC in 2011 to index the number of healthy food retailers versus less healthy. The formula is the division of healthy food retailers versus retailers as a whole. The lower the score, the less healthy food is available.